Hon. Dean D. Pregerson, Presiding

PLAINTIFF WBS, INC.'S MEMORANDUM OF POINTS AND AUTHORITIES IN SUPPORT OF ITS MOTION FOR RECONSIDERATION

F.R.C.P. 59 AND 60; C.D. CAL. L.R.
7-18

Hearing: January 9, 2017
Time: 10:00 a.m.
Courtroom: 9C
Hon. Dean D. Pregerson

1 MEMORANDUM OF POINTS AND AUTHORITIES

2 Plaintiff, WBS, Inc., (“WBS”) submits this Memorandum of Points and 3 Authorities regarding its Notice of Motion and Motion for Reconsideration under 4 F.R.C.P. 59(e) and 60, and C.D. Cal. L.R. 7-18(c) of this Court’s ruling on 5 Plaintiff’s and Defendant Juan Croucier’s (“Croucier” or “Defendant”) Motions for 6 Summary Judgment or Partial Summary Judgment (“MSJ”) as follows:

7 I. INTRODUCTION

8 This Court made findings on evidence and thereupon ruled on the Parties’ 9 MSJs relying on the evidence presented before it; however, the evidence relied upon 10 was filed and presented to this Court in bad faith by the Defendant. This Court did 11 not have previous state Court minute orders, findings of fact, and rulings when 12 deciding the MSJs in this action. The Defendant recognized this deficiency in the 13 Court’s record of information in this case and used that as an opportunity to 14 perpetrate a fraud on this Court. The Defendant and the Attorneys knew, or should 15 have known, they were filing pleadings and declarations with this Court and in the 16 record with information contrary to previously adjudicated issues. Regardless, this 17 Court did not have the complete evidence it needed to rule on the MSJs. In addition, 18 Defendant’s counterclaims should have been precluded by the Rooker-Feldman 19 Doctrine. Moreover, this Court did not find triable issues of fact where there were 20 issues that should have gone to the jury.

21 II. STATEMENT OF FACTS

22 This action was commenced by Plaintiff on September 15, 2015 after three 23 demand letters and multiple communications with Defendant and his then current 24 Attorney did not dissuade Defendant from infringing Plaintiff’s four registered trade 25 and service marks (the “Marks”) (See Declaration of Drew H. Sherman “Dec. of 26 Sherman”). The Complaint was served on Defendant in October 9, 2015 and a few 27 days later Defendant contacted Plaintiff’s counsel requesting an extension for time 28

1 to answer the Complaint because he needed to retain new counsel (See Dec. of 2 Sherman). The Defendant finally retained new counsel and answered the 3 Complaint on October 30, 2015.

4 This Court set a Scheduling Conference for early January 2016. The 5 Defendant filed amended answer to Plaintiff’s Complaint on March 4, 2016 (See 6 Dec. of Sherman). Defendant’s third law firm moved this Court for leave to file a 7 second amended answer to add counterclaims.

8 Plaintiff’s counsel warned Defendant about filing this motion for leave to file 9 a counterclaim and even provided Defendant with documents that evidenced facts 10 which negated the Defendant’s counterclaims including, but not limited to, 11 correspondence to and from Defendant’s, then current, counsel in 1996 discussing 12 the Partnership’s dissolution by the other partners, Defendant’s expulsion from the 13 Partnership by the other partners, Stephen Percy (“Percy”), Warren DeMartini 14 (“DeMartini”), and Robert Blotzer (“Blotzer”), the use of the Marks by, as alleged 15 by Defendant, former members of the Partnership, and a 2002 judgment against 16 Percy declaring the transfer of the Marks to WBS as legitimate (See Dec. of 17 Sherman).

18 The 2002 Judgment in the Los Angeles County Superior Court action, case 19 number BC 245356, Percy v. WBS, et al, August 19, 2002 (the “Judgment”) (See 20 Dkt. No. 148 and 148-1) was made known to Croucier’s counsel by Plaintiff at the 21 early stages of this litigation when Croucier was served with a Rule 11 motion (See 22 Dec. of Sherman). The Judgment contains the evidence of the make-up of the 23 Partnership’s partners in 1997 when Croucier was expelled. In the Judgment, the 24 Honorable David Workman, L.A. County Superior Court judge, incorporated his 25 ruling on the defendants and cross-complainants in that action, WBS, Blotzer, and 26 DeMartini, motion for summary adjudication, which he granted on February 6, 2002

27
28

1 and entered on March 29, 2002, (the “2002 Ruling”) into the Judgment (See Dkt. No.
2 148-1 pg. 3).

3 In the 2002 Ruling, Judge Workman found the Marks to be owned by WBS 4 and that there was no “competent evidence to show invalidity of the sale [of the 5 Marks] to WBS, Inc.,” in the face of Percy’s argument in opposition that the Marks 6 remained with the Partnership because the termination of Croucier from the 7 Partnership did not follow the California Corporation’s Code, thereby making the 8 transfer invalid (See Dec. of Sherman). The evidence relied upon by Judge 9 Workman for the 2002 Ruling was the same letter expelling Croucier from the 10 Partnership that Plaintiff submitted as evidence in this litigation (See Dec. of 11 Sherman). In addition, the declarations of Blotzer and DeMartini, wherein 12 DeMartini stated under oath that Croucier was terminated from the Partnership and 13 that DeMartini was one of the partners that voted for the expulsion also supporting 14 Judge Workman’s decision in the 2002 Ruling (See Dec. of Sherman). Even Percy 15 stated in his declaration opposing the motion for summary adjudication in 2002, that 16 Croucier did not want to “participate in and wanted no part of the RATT 17 Partnership” (See Dec. of Sherman).

18 Defendant has known about the Judgment since 2002, and his attorneys have 19 known since April 2016. Yet, with this knowledge, Defendant and his counsel 20 continued to advanced arguments and positions that they knew to be contrary to law.

21 III. ARGUMENT

22 Defendant’s fraud on this Court by not properly making the Court aware of the 23 facts regarding the Marks. These omissions caused this Court to not consider material 24 information, which has led this Court to make material mistakes of fact, thereby, 25 generating a ruling and findings which are manifestly unjustly.

1 A. Legal Standard.

2 A district court may reconsider its grant of summary judgment under either 3 Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 59(e) (motion to alter or amend a judgment) or Rule 4 60(b) (relief from judgment).” Sch. Dist. No. 1J, Multnomah Cty., Or. v. ACandS, 5 Inc., 5 F.3d 1255, 1262 (9th Cir. 1993).

6 Rule 59(e) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure allow litigants relief from 7 an order or ruling by a Court’s reconsideration of its decisions (1) to correct manifest 8 errors of law or fact that led to the judgment or ruling; (2) to present newly discovered 9 or previously unavailable evidence; (3) to apply an intervening change of law; and (4) 10 to prevent manifest injustice. McDowell v. Calderon, 197 F. 3D 1253, 1255 n. 1 (9th 11 Cir. 1999). Further, Rule 59(e) has also been employed where litigants’ attorneys 12 have breached their duty to the court to research the facts and law, obligated under 13 Rule 11, which facilitated a clearly erroneous judgment. Van Derheydt v. County of 14 Placer, 32 Fed. Appx. 221, 223 (9th Cir. 2002).

15 In Van Derheydt, the Ninth Circuit reversed a denial of a motion for 16 reconsideration under Rule 59(e) by way of the first and fourth grounds for relief 17 under Rule 59(e). Id. at 222. It found that, even though the argument presented by 18 the moving party was first raised in the motion for reconsideration, because the 19 appellate court found that the opposing party misled the district court by its failure to 20 properly investigate the law, as obligated by Rule 11, before filing its motion to 21 dismiss. Id. at 223. The Ninth Circuit reasoned that the opposing party’s breach of its 22 duty under Rule 11 caused an erroneous district court ruling. Id.

23 Rule 60 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure provides that “a court may 24 relieve a party or its legal representative from a final judgment, order, or proceeding” 25 for any of several reasons, including “mistake, inadvertence, surprise, or excusable 26 neglect.” Fed. R. Civ. P. 60(b)(1). A Rule 60(b) motion may seek relief from an 27 excusable mistake on the part of a party or counsel, or if the district court has made a 28

1 substantive error of law or fact in its judgment or order. Bretana v. Int'l Collection
2 Corp., 2010 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 27786, at *2-3 (N.D. Cal. Mar. 24, 2010) (citing Utah
3 ex. Rel. Div. of Forestry v. United States, 528 F.3d 712, 722-23 (10th Cir. 2008)).
4 Rule 60(b) exists to prevent the judgment from becoming a vehicle of injustice. Siepel
5 v. Bank of Am., N.A., 2007 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 14430 *4 (E.D. Mo. 2007) (citing Harley 6 v. Zoesch, 413 F. 3d 866, 871 (8th Cir. 2005)). It is remedial in nature and must be 7 liberally applied. Ahanchian v. Xenon Pictures, Inc., 624 F.3d 1253, 1262 (9th Cir.
8 2010).

9 In Siepel, the parties were involved in litigation in both federal court and 10 Florida state court regarding claims that were nearly identical. The defendant bank 11 prevailed in both litigations and both courts awarded the defendant bank attorney's 12 fees and costs. However, in the Florida state court action, the defendant bank 13 requested substantially lower attorney's fees and costs, and that state court reached its 14 decision prior to the federal district court reaching its decision on the issue of 15 attorney's fees and costs. As such, the plaintiff moved the district court to alter or 16 amend the judgment by vacating the award of attorney's fees and costs under F.R.C.P.
17 59(e) and 60(b). Finding that a judgment, in addition to its state court judgment, 18 would give the defendant a double recovery on the same injury, thereby allowing the 19 federal court judgment to serve as a vehicle of injustice, the federal district court 20 granted, in part, the motions to alter or amend the judgment. Id. at *4-5. The federal 21 district court reasoned that by virtue of the state court's decision being handed down 22 prior to the federal court decision; respecting the comity between state and federal 23 courts to prevent the manifest injustice of a double recovery. Id.

24 Local Rule 7-18(c) further permits reconsideration upon "a manifest showing 25 of a failure to consider material facts presented to the court before the decision." C.D.
26 Cal. L. R. 7-18. Moreover, "[n]o motion for reconsideration shall in any manner 27
28

1 repeat any oral or written argument made in support of or in opposition to the original 2 motion.” Id.

3 In weighing the merits of Plaintiff’s and Defendants’ Motions for Summary
4 Judgment, the Court granted Defendant’s summary judgment stating, “there is no 5 triable issue with respect to the validity of the assignment of the RATT marks to WBS.
6 Because the assignment was invalid, WBS cannot make the threshold showing that it 7 has an ownership interest in the marks.” (Order, 12:10-13). With all deference, the 8 Court’s ruling on the summary judgment motion is proper for reconsideration under 9 F.R.C.P. 59(e), as well as Local Rule 7-18(c) and 60(b)(1), because, as the district
10 court in Van Derheydt was the subject of a breach of duty, this Court too was victim 11 to Croucier and his lawyer’s failure, intentional or not, to research the facts 12 surrounding the Marks and the transfer to WBS. What’s more, this Court did not have 13 all the evidence before it necessary to realize Defendant and his declarant witness 14 have been lying to this Court, thus creating a situation akin to that in Siepel whereby 15 the district court used Rules 59(e) and 60(b) to recognize the Rooker-Feldman
16 Doctrine so that the judgment cannot be used as a vehicle for injustice. As well, this 17 Court has made errors of law and fact in ruling on the MSJs, and this motion is 18 necessary to prevent a manifest injustice.

19 B. Prior Court Rulings Estop Defendant And Percy In This Action

20 “Federal courts give preclusive effect to state court judgments to the extent 21 required by statute and by the res judicata principals embodied in federal common 22 law.” Holder v. Holder, 305 F. 3d 854, 864 (9th Cir. 2002) (citing 18B Charles Alan 23 Wright, Arthur R. Miller, & Edward H. Cooper, Federal Practice and Procedure §4469 24 (2d Ed. 2002)). Section 1738 of Title 28 to the U.S. Code provides that the judicial 25 proceedings of any state court shall have the full faith and credit in every court within 26 the United States. 28 U.S.C. §1738. The Ninth Circuit recognizes the need for courts 27 to give difference to judgments of other courts to determine whether res judicata or 28

1 collateral estoppel principals apply. Young Money Entm't, LLC v. Digerati Holdings,
2 LLC, 2012 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 163619, *11 (C.D. Cal. 2012) (citing Holder, 305 F. 3d 3 at 866).

4 Collateral estoppel precludes the retrying of an issue previously determined by 5 a valid and final judgment so as to protect litigants from having to relitigate the same 6 issue again and again. Young Money, 2012 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 163619 at *14 (citing 7 Ashe v. Swenson, 397 U.S. 436, 443 (1970)). Judicial estoppel is an equitable 8 doctrine that precludes a party from gaining an advantage by asserting one position, 9 and then later seeking an advantage by taking a clearly inconsistent position. Hamilton 10 v. State Farm Fire & Cas. Co., 270 F. 3d 778, 782 (9th Cir. 2001) (citing Rissetto v.
11 Plumbers & Steamers Local 343, 94 F. 3d 597, 600-601 (9th Cir. 1996)). Judicial 12 estoppel is not limited to bar the assertion of inconsistent positions in the same 13 litigation, but is also appropriate to bar litigants from making incompatible statements 14 in two different positions. Id. at 783 (Rissetto, 94 F. 3d at 605). Estoppel doctrines, 15 such as judicial estoppel or collateral estoppel, apply substance over form as the 16 doctrines are intended to protect the courts from litigants engaged in fraudulent 17 representations. Chicago, Rock Island & Pac. Ry. Co. v. Schendel, 270 U.S. 611, 620 18 (1926).

19 The 2002 litigation of Pearcy v. WBS, et al, not only estopped Percy from 20 making the representations he did in his declaration on record with this Court, but, 21 also, Croucier is collaterally estopped from challenging the transfer of the Marks to 22 WBS.

23 1. Defendant is Collaterally Estopped from Challenging the Transfer

24 When applying collateral estoppel to cases arising under California or federal 25 law, courts must find that (1) the issue decided in the previous proceeding is identical 26 to the current issue; (2) there was a final judgment on the merits in the first proceeding;

1 and (3) the party seeking to relitigate the issue was a party or privy to the first 2 proceeding. Hydranautics v. Filmtec Corp., 204 F.3d 880, 885 (9th Cir. 2000).

3 Generally, collateral estoppel will not apply to a subsequent litigation if the 4 same parties from the first litigation are not the same parties to the second litigation.
5 Taylor v. Stargell, 553 U.S. 880, 892 (2008). However, the rule has exceptions 6 through which a non-party to a prior action may nevertheless be precluded from 7 asserting an identical issue previously determined by a valid final judgment on the 8 merits. Id. at 893. Two of the exceptions are applicable to the case at bar. One 9 exception lies where there is a pre-existing substantive legal relationship between the 10 person to be bound and a party to the judgment wherein they are in privity with each 11 other. Taylor, 553 U.S. at 894. The other is found when one of the parties to the 12 previous litigation adequately represented the non-party against whom estoppel is 13 sought in the second litigation because they shared the same interests in the litigation 14 that they would have been litigating for the same result. Id. Adequate representation 15 has been defined as, at a minimum to be, the interests of the non-party and the litigant 16 are aligned and either party understood that they were acting in a representative 17 capacity (or the first court took care to protect the interests of the non-party. Id. at 899 18 (citing Hansberry v. Lee, 311 U.S. 32, 43 (1940); Richards v. Jefferson County, 517 19 U.S.793, 801-802 (1996)).

20 “Historically, privity between parties was only recognized in limited categories 21 of legal relationships when two parties had identical or transferred rights with respect 22 to a particular legal interest, chiefly:…partners and their partnerships.” Bronson v.
23 Green Tree Servicing, LLC, 2009 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 20221, at *16 (E.D. Cal. 2009)
24 (citing Headwaters Inc. v. United States Forest Serv., 399 F.3d 1047, 1053 (9th Cir.
25 2005) (citing Restatement (Second) of Judgments, §§ 43-61 (1982))).

26 In Bronson, plaintiff individual sued defendant lenders of money, alleging 27 unlawful conduct with respect to the execution and servicing of two loans after 28

1 plaintiff defaulted on her loan. The lenders declared bankruptcy, and the assets were 2 bought out of the bankruptcy court by other third parties. The plaintiff brought an 3 action against the new owners of the notes. The lenders challenged on res judicata 4 grounds claiming to be in privity with the entities that had declared bankruptcy. The 5 district court agreed and granted the partial summary judgment. The plaintiff filed a 6 third amended complaint and added more defendants. The lenders moved to dismiss 7 the third amended complaint on res judicata ground since they had already addressed 8 any claims by the debtor plaintiff in bankruptcy court and were in privity with them.

9 In granting the lenders partial summary judgment on the plaintiff's second 10 amended complaint, the court ruled that several of the claims had already been 11 adjudicated when the defaulting lenders had purchased the loans out of the bankruptcy 12 court. Bronson, 2009 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 20221, at *16. The district court found that 13 several of the claims were the same as those raised in the bankruptcy court and the 14 court had issued a final judgment on the merits of those claims. Id. Additionally, 15 because the plaintiff was attempting to relitigate issues that had already been resolved 16 in the bankruptcy, when the defendant lenders were corporate partners with and 17 successors in interest to the assets the entities that had gone through bankruptcy, the 18 district court held that the defendants were in privity with each other and could benefit 19 from the summary judgment. Id.

20 The case at bar is similar to the fact pattern in Bronson in that, here, Defendant 21 and Stephen Percy were in privity with each other since they were both partners in 22 the RATT general partnership and Percy was claiming an interest in and to the RATT 23 trademarks, just as Defendant is in the action before this Court. Further, inherently, 24 Percy was claiming an invalid transfer of the Marks to WBS just as Defendant is 25 doing in this action (See Dec. of Sherman). Furthermore, Percy in the state court 26 action even made the argument that Croucier's expulsion was not proper (See Dec. of 27 Sherman). Thus, not only did Percy adequately represent Croucier and make the 28

1 same argument Croucier made in this action, but Percy also recognized that Croucier
2 was expelled from the RATT Partnership which directly refutes the declaration 3 Croucier submitted in Reply to his Motion for Partial Summary Judgment.

4 Hence, this case presents the quintessential collateral estoppel in that the issue
5 being litigated (validity of the transfer of the Marks to WBS in 1997) in this action 6 has already been decided by a final judgment on the merits, and the parties in the two 7 actions, though not the same, are in privity with each other to make Percy's day in 8 court adequate for Croucier. Croucier should be subject to the state court ruling of 9 2002 wherein Judge Workman determined that the transfer of the Marks to WBS was 10 valid.

11 As such, reconsideration under Rules 59(e) and/or 60(b) is proper to prevent a 12 manifest injustice and/or correct errors of fact upon which the judgment is based.

13 2. Percy Cannot Deny Knowledge of Croucier's Expulsion

14 A "court invokes judicial estoppel not only to prevent a party from gaining an 15 advantage by taking inconsistent positions, but also because of 'general 16 considerations of the orderly administration of justice and regard for the dignity of 17 judicial proceedings,' and to 'protect against a litigant playing fast and loose with the 18 courts.'" Hamilton, 270 F. 3d at 782 (quoting Russell v. Rolfs, 893 F. 2d 1033, 1037 19 (9th Cir. 1990)). Courts have been provided three factors from which to determine 20 whether to apply the doctrine of judicial estoppel: 1) whether the party taking a 21 position inconsistent with its earlier position; 2) whether the party succeed in 22 persuading the court to accept its earlier position thereby creating a perception that 23 one of the courts was misled; and 3) whether the inconsistent position provide an 24 unfair advantage to the party or impose an unfair detriment on the opposing party.
25 Baughman v. Walt Disney, 685 F. 3d 1131, 1133 (9th Cir. 2012) (citing New 26 Hampshire v. Maine, 532 U.S. 742, 750-751 (2001)). Yet, the Supreme Court in New 27 Hampshire made it clear that with "these factors, we do not establish inflexible 28

1 prerequisites or an exhaustive formula for determining the applicability of judicial 2 estoppel. Additional considerations may inform the doctrine’s application in specific 3 factual contexts.” New Hampshire, 532 U.S. at 751. But, in the case at bar, the 4 Percy’s declaration falls squarely in the three enumerated factors of New Hampshire 5 leading to the employ of judicial estoppel.

6 A party’s later position must be clearly inconsistent with its previous position.
7 Id. at 750. Additionally, chicanery or knowing misrepresentation by the party to be 8 estopped is a factor to be considered in the analysis. Percy is taking a position with 9 the declaration he submitted, through Croucier, in this action, wherein he states that 10 Croucier was never expelled from the RATT Partnership, that is inconsistent and a 11 knowing misrepresentation with his previous statements in the 2002 state court action.
12 There, to the court and on the record, Percy stated multiple times, in pleadings, 13 declarations, and other filings, that he was well aware of the expulsion of Croucier 14 from the RATT partnership in addition to the fact that Croucier, after Percy inquiring 15 if Croucier would be interested in rejoining the Partnership, represented to Percy that 16 Croucier did not want to rejoin the Partnership (See Dec. of Sherman). Hence, 17 Percy’s declaration is inconsistent with previous statements made to a court, but, 18 also they are blatant misrepresentations to this Court. The first factor for judicial 19 estoppel has been met.

20 For the second factor in deciding judicial estoppel, the courts regularly inquire 21 whether the party has succeeded in persuading a court to accept that party’s earlier 22 position so that judicial acceptance of an inconsistent position in a later proceeding 23 would indicate a fraud on the court. Id. Even just appearances of a fraud on the court 24 through the court’s acceptance of an inconsistent position meets the criteria of the 25 second factor for judicial estoppel. Hamilton, 270 F. 3d at 782. A party can be 26 estopped, even if the previous tribunal did not rely upon the first position, if the party 27
28

1 is now playing "fast and loose" with the court. Rissetto, 94 F. 3d at 601; Baughman, 2 685 F. 3d 1131, 1134.

3 In Baughman, the Ninth Circuit found against the plaintiff on summary 4 judgment using judicial estoppel by reasoning that her ADA claim that she could not 5 use a motorized wheelchair was completely contradictory to her earlier lawsuits that 6 she could only use a motorized wheelchair. Id. When the court relies on statements 7 that become material to the court's ruling, the party making those statements cannot 8 then state the opposite in a later action. Id.

9 With regard to Percy's statements in the 2002 state court action, though Percy 10 did not prevail and there was no settlement, Percy's knowledge of Croucier's 11 termination from the Partnership and claim that the termination was not valid per a 12 provision of the corporations code allowed the court to find that Percy, Blotzer, and 13 DeMartini were the remaining partners in the Partnership with the ability to transfer 14 the Marks (See Dec. of Sherman). Percy's representations regarding Croucier's 15 expulsion from the Partnership were material to the 2002 Ruling. Now, here, in the 16 case at bar, Percy's statements that Croucier was expelled from the Partnership, or 17 even having the discussion regarding any proposed termination, has conned this Court 18 into believing that Croucier has remained in the Partnership for the last 20 years, and 19 thereby allowing this Court to find an invalid transfer of the Marks to WBS. This was 20 Percy clearly playing fast and loose with the courts. Hence, it appears, in fact, the 21 Court was misled.

22 Clearly Percy planned his misrepresentations for his benefit as an invalid
23 transfer of the Mark to WBS 20 years ago unwinds 20 years of Percy's own missteps
24 and bad acts thereby creating an unfair advantage for Percy and an unfair detriment 25 for WBS. Judicial estoppel should be "invoked only when a party's inconsistent 26 behavior otherwise will result in a miscarriage of justice." Mull v. Motion Picture
27 Indus. Health Plan, 2015 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 180269, at *43 (C.D. Cal. 2015); Milton

1 H. Greene Archives, Inc. v. Marilyn Monroe, LLC, 692 F.3d 983, 1000 (9th Cir.
2 2012). In Greene, the estate of Marilyn Monroe attempted to get a favorable position
3 to institute a right of publicity action in California when the estate had previously 4 benefited from its representation that Ms. Monroe was a New York resident, not 5 California. The Circuit Court determined that judicial estoppel was appropriate to 6 prevent an “about face” position for a litigant from a previous action they were in, 7 which would lead to a miscarriage of justice. Id.

8 In the situation at issue before this Court, without the exercise of judicial 9 estoppel, Percy and Croucier would be allowed to perpetrate a fraud on the Court 10 and a miscarriage of justice. By intentionally ignoring his previous statements to the 11 L.A. County Superior Court, Percy has assisted to invalidate an otherwise valid 12 transfer of corporate assets, has found vengeance from the previous 2002 Ruling, and 13 has put himself back in the controlling position of his former band and partnership 14 when he was previously terminated because of his inability to control his addictions.
15 To allow retribution to win the day by knowingly mispresenting facts to the Court, 16 would damage judicial integrity in the courts.

17 In sum, judicial estoppel is necessary with regards to Percy’s declaration, as 18 filed by Croucier with his reply to Plaintiff’s opposition to his motion for summary 19 judgment, as the declaration puts forth an inconsistent position by Percy, on which 20 the California state court relied in 2002, and which would allow an unfair advantage 21 and injustice to occur.

22 Therefore, reconsideration under Rules 59(e) and/or 60(b) is proper to prevent 23 a manifest injustice and/or correct errors of fact upon which this Court’s decisions 24 regarding the MSJs are based.

25 C. Percy’s Declaration Is A Sham Affidavit

26 This Court gave weight to Percy’s declaration (Dkt. No. 150-2), which 27 Croucier filed in support of his reply to Plaintiff’s opposition to his MSJ, even 28

1 though Plaintiff's counsel objected to the declaration as a sham declaration verbally 2 at the hearing on the MSJ (See Dkt. No. 181 pg. 11 fn. 7). However, this Court did 3 not recognize Plaintiff's objection to Percy's declaration because the objection was 4 not made in writing or supported by evidence to the contrary (See Dkt. No. 181 pg.
5 11 fn. 7).

6 "The general rule in the Ninth Circuit is that a party cannot create an issue of 7 fact by an affidavit contradicting his prior deposition testimony." Van Asdale v. Int'l 8 Game Tech., 577 F.3d 989, 997 (9th Cir. 2009) (quoting Kennedy v. Allied Mut. Ins.
9 Co., 952 F.2d 262, 266 (9th Cir. 1991)). This sham affidavit rule prevents "a party 10 who has been examined at length on deposition" from "rais[ing] an issue of fact 11 simply by submitting an affidavit contradicting his own prior testimony," which 12 "would greatly diminish the utility of summary judgment as a procedure for 13 screening out sham issues of fact." Kennedy, 952 F.2d at 266. As discussed above, 14 Percy's declaration should not have been allowed in based primarily on judicial 15 estoppel.

16 However, even Plaintiff's counsel's verbal objection should have triggered 17 this Court to rule on the declaration's admissibility and credibility on its own. A 18 verbal objection to a sham affidavit at a summary judgment hearing carries the 19 requisite procedural triggers that written objections carry with them. Strang v.
20 United States Arms Control & Disarmament Agency, 864 F.2d 859, 861(1989)
21 (citing Woods v. Allied Concord Financial Corp., 373 F.2d 733, 734 (5th Cir. 1967)).
22 More importantly, it is the obligation of the district court to "make a factual 23 determination that the contradiction was actually a 'sham.'" Van Asdale v. Int'l 24 Game Tech., 577 F. 3d 989, 998 (9th Cir. 2009) (quoting Kennedy v. Allied Mut. Ins.
25 Co., 952 F. 2d 262, 267 (9th Cir. 1991)).

26 In Van Asdale, former employees of an computer gaming company brought 27 whistleblower actions against their former employer. The district court granted a 28

1 summary judgment motion in favor of the defendant employer partially because it 2 found one of the plaintiff’s declarations to be a sham affidavit in contradiction to 3 their deposition testimony. On appeal, the Ninth Circuit reversed the district court’s 4 grant of summary judgment. Van Asdale, 577 F. 3d at 999. In reversing the district 5 court, the circuit court held that the district court did not make a specific factual 6 finding regarding the “sham affidavit,” but, rather, summarily made the ruling 7 without the analysis instructed by Kennedy. Id.

8 Like Van Asdale, in the case at bar, this Court simply accepted Percy’s sham 9 declaration, even though Plaintiff’s counsel lodged an objection at the oral 10 argument, without any analysis or finding as to whether the declaration should have 11 been considered a sham affidavit. Indeed, this Court did not provide the requisite 12 Kennedy analysis in its written opinion on the MSJs either. Thus, as with Van 13 Asdale, in order to avoid a manifest injustice, this Court should reconsider its 14 position on the Percy declaration given the validity of Plaintiff’s objection and the 15 obligation for the Court to make a specific finding on its own, without being 16 instigated by a party objection. Given the findings in the 2002 Ruling and 17 Judgment, just as with the need for judicial estoppel with regards to Percy’s 18 declaration, this Court should also find Percy’s declaration to be a sham declaration 19 when compared with his prior sworn testimony from 2002.

20 D. Croucier’s Counterclaims Are Barred By The Rooker-Feldman Doctrine

21 “Rooker-Feldman is a powerful doctrine that prevents federal courts from 22 second-guessing state court decisions by barring the lower federal courts from 23 hearing de facto appeals from state court judgments.” Bianchi v. Rylaarsdam, 334 24 F.3d 895, 898 (9th Cir. 2003). “Rooker-Feldman doctrine is based on “comity” and 25 ‘seeks to prevent state and federal courts . . . [from] fighting each other for control 26 of a particular case.’” Id. at 902, fn. 6 (quoting Kropelnicki v. Siegel, 290 F.3d 118, 27 128 (2d Cir. 2002)). “[I]f the precise claims raised in a state court proceeding are 28

1 raised in the subsequent federal proceeding, Rooker-Feldman plainly will bar the 2 action.” Id. at 899 (quoting Phifer v. City of New York, 289 F.3d 49, 55-56 (2nd
3 Cir. 2002)).

4 Additionally, “[i]f claims raised in the federal court action are “inextricably 5 intertwined” with the state court’s decision such that the adjudication of the federal 6 claims would undercut the state ruling..., then the federal complaint must be 7 dismissed for lack of subject matter jurisdiction.” Id. Rooker-Feldman does not 8 simply “compare the issues involved in the state-court proceeding to those raised in 9 the federal-court plaintiff’s complaint[,]” but, more importantly, under Rooker- 10 Feldman, “[the courts] must pay close attention to the relief sought by the federal-11 court plaintiff.” Id. (quoting Kenman Eng’g v. City of Union, 314 F.3d 468, 476 12 (10th Cir. 2002)). Thus, the Rooker-Feldman doctrine prevents lower federal courts 13 from exercising jurisdiction over any claim that is “inextricably intertwined” with 14 the decision of a state court, even where the party does not directly challenge the 15 merits of the state court’s decision but rather brings an indirect challenge based on 16 constitutional principles. Bianchi, 334 F. 3d at 900, fn. 4. “Stated plainly, ‘Rooker-
17 Feldman bars any suit that seeks to disrupt or “undo” a prior state-court judgment, 18 regardless of whether the state-court proceeding afforded the federal-court plaintiff a 19 full and fair opportunity to litigate her claims.’” Id. at 901 (quoting Kenman, 314 F.
20 3d at 478).

21 In Bianchi, the plaintiff filed an action against Bank of America in California 22 state superior court, wherein he disqualified a judge who would later sit on the state 23 appeals court panel deciding his appeal from the underlying action. His appeal was 24 unsuccessful, as well as his petition to the State Supreme Court and another round 25 with the California Court of Appeals. Finally, the plaintiff brought a suit against the 26 three court of appeals justices in federal court claiming violation of due process and 27 sought to have the California state court judgment set aside and vacated, and a new 28

1 panel put in place for the appellate court. The three justices moved to dismiss the 2 action under F.R.C.P. 12(b)(1) and 12(b)(6). The federal court granted the judges’ 3 motions to dismiss, employing the Rooker-Feldman Doctrine by reasoning that the 4 relief and demand the plaintiff sought would necessarily require reviewing and 5 overturning the state court decision. Id. at 902.

6 Per the Ninth Circuit, there are two kinds of cases in which a “de facto 7 appeal,” forbidden under the Rooker-Feldman doctrine, might be brought. Noel v.
8 Hall, 341 F.3d 1148, 1163 (9th Cir. 2003). “First, the federal plaintiff may 9 complain of harm caused by a state court judgment that directly withholds a benefit 10 from (or imposes a detriment on) the federal plaintiff, based on an allegedly 11 erroneous ruling by that court.” Id. The second forbidden de facto appeal identified 12 by the Ninth Circuit, occurs where the federal plaintiff complains of “a legal injury 13 caused by a state court judgment, based on an allegedly erroneous legal ruling, in a 14 case in which the federal plaintiff was one of the litigants.” Id.

15 If a plaintiff is “bring[ing] a forbidden de facto appeal” such that the Rooker-
16 Feldman doctrine applies, the doctrine will not only prohibit the federal plaintiff 17 from litigating the de facto appeal, but also any issue that is “inextricably 18 intertwined” with the state court’s judgment. Cooper v. Ramos, 704 F.3d 772, 778-19 79. A claim is “inextricably intertwined” with a state court judgment ““if the 20 federal claim succeeds only to the extent that the state court wrongly decided the 21 issues before it.”” Thompson v. Santa Cruz County Human Servs. Dep’t, 2013 U.S.
22 Dist. LEXIS 58307, at *17 (N.D. Cal. 2012) (quoting Cooper, 704 F. 3d at 779)
23 (quoting Pennzoil Co. v. Texaco, Inc., 481 U.S. 1, 25 (1987)); see also Bianchi v.
24 Rylaarsdam, 334 F.3d 895, 898 (9th Cir. 2003) (providing that claims are 25 “‘inextricably intertwined’ with the state court’s decision” if “the adjudication of...
26 [such] claims would undercut the state ruling”) (emphasis added).

1 In Thompson, the plaintiffs brought their action seeking to enjoin the 2 enforcement of a state Juvenile Court that ordered the plaintiffs' two children be 3 removed from their home and into foster care. Even though the plaintiffs did most 4 of tasks required to gain custody back of their children, they did not make all the 5 markers the Juvenile Court required. The judge in the Juvenile Court then allowed 6 the foster parents to adopt the plaintiffs' children. The plaintiffs appealed but were 7 unsuccessful.

8 Subsequently, the plaintiffs filed a complaint in the Northern District of 9 California against the foster parents, the judge from the Juvenile Court, and the 10 County Human Services department seeking, inter alia, an injunction reversing the 11 termination of parental rights and an order for the children be reunited with the 12 plaintiffs. The defendants moved to dismiss the complaint under F.R.C.P. 12(b)(1) 13 and 12(b)(6). The district court granted the defendants motions and dismissed the 14 plaintiffs' complaint without leave to amend. Thompson, 2013 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 15 58307, at *37. The district court granted the motions reasoning, inter alia, that the 16 Rooker-Feldman Doctrine barred the plaintiffs' claims since the relief sought by the 17 plaintiffs would have required the district court to find that the state court committed 18 legal errors and the remedy would be relief from the state court judgment. Id. at 17-19 21.

20 Just as the courts in Bianchi and Thompson did not have jurisdiction over the 21 federal action because the relief being sought would have necessitated the district 22 courts to find legal or factual errors in the state court decisions, as well as undercut 23 the state court decisions by making an opposite ruling regarding the subjects of the 24 litigations, here, in the case at bar, the ruling by this Court on the parties' MSJs has 25 undone the Los Angeles County Superior Court ruling by Judge Workman from 2002.
26 As well, inherently, this Court has also determined that there were errors of law or 27 fact in Judge Workman's findings by its ruling on the MSJs.

28

1 This Court determined that the transfer of the Marks in 1997 from the 2 Partnership to WBS by the then current partners of Blotzer, DeMartini, and Percy 3 was void ab initio. This Court reasoned this ruling on the basis that the various 4 writings from and on behalf of Percy and DeMartini, along with the Croucier
5 expulsion letter, muddied the waters as to which partners were still in the Partnership 6 at the time of Croucier's expulsion in 1997 (See Dkt. No. 181 pgs. 8-11). And, this 7 confusion as to who made up the remaining partners of the Partnership in 1997, led 8 this Court to find that there was not a triable issue of fact going to Croucier's argument 9 that his expulsion was not done by the unanimous consent of the remaining partners 10 to the Partnership (save for Croucier) (See Dkt. No. 181 pg. 12:1-2). In reaching this 11 conclusion, this Court relied on the fact that there was no evidence in the record about 12 DeMartini's consent of Croucier's expulsion, as well as Percy's conflicting writings 13 of 1992, 1995, and 1997, in conjunction with Percy's declaration submitted by 14 Croucier as part of his reply to the Plaintiff's opposition to Croucier's MSJ, which 15 created a triable issue as to whether the expulsion of Croucier from the Partnership 16 was ever valid (See Dkt. No. 181 pg. 11:1-16 and fn. 6). However, this Court's 17 reasoning is based on a false premise and intentional deception; the truth mandates an 18 actual opposite ruling.

19 As part of its reply to Croucier's opposition to Plaintiff's MSJ, Plaintiff 20 requested this Court take Judicial Notice of the Judgment (See Dkt. No. 148 and 148-21 1). Though this Court did not rule on Plaintiff's request for judicial notice, the 22 Judgment contains the evidence this Court needed to clarify the make-up of the 23 Partnership's partners in 1997 when Croucier was expelled (See Dkt. No. 148-1 pg.
24 3).

25 Given the 2002 Ruling, the ruling on Croucier's MSJ necessarily has reviewed 26 errors of fact and law from the 2002 state court action and has undone the Judgment, 27 the Ruling, and the findings of Judge Workman contained therein. Thus, just as in 28

1 Bianchi and Thompson, this Court should not have proceeded to rule on Croucier’s
2 MSJ as this Court, per Rooker-Feldman, did not have jurisdiction over Croucier’s 3 counterclaims. Therefore, this Court should reconsider its rulings on the MSJs under 4 Rules 59(e), 60(b), and L.R. 7-18, to prevent a manifest injustice.

5 A motion for summary judgment or partial summary judgment is only 6 appropriate when there exists no genuine issue of any material fact, and the moving 7 party is entitled to judgment as a matter of law. Fed. Rules of Civ. Pro. 56(c); Adickes
8 v. S. Kress & Co., 398 U.S. 144, 157 (1970). [tyler’s portions]. An appellate court 9 will only affirm a district court’s grant of summary judgment, if the district court 10 found, without weighing conflicting evidence, making credibility determinations on 11 the evidence, and viewing the evidence in a light most favorable to the non-moving 12 party, that there were no triable issues of material fact. Clicks Billiards, Inc. v.
13 Sixshooters, Inc., 251 F. 3D 1252, 1257 (9th Cir. 2001); T.W. Elec. Serv., Inc. V. Pac.
14 Elec. Contractors Ass’n., 809 F. 2d 626, 630-631 (9th Cir. 1987) (citing Matsushita, 15 475 U.S. At 587).

16 E. The MSJ Ruling Was Influenced By Fraud

17 As discussed above, Rule 59(e) is a proper remedy for a district court to use 18 when a ruling is facilitated by a party’s intentional or unintentional fraud on the court 19 as embodied in a breach of duty to investigate. Van Derheydt, 32 Fed. Appx. at 223.
20 The facts of the case at bar nearly mirror the facts of Van Derheydt. In the action 21 before this Court, Croucier and his counsel were well aware of the 2002 Ruling.
22 Croucier admitted in his deposition on the record that he followed the 2002 case 23 amongst his former bandmates and even acquired some of the pleadings filed in the 24 action (See Dec. of Sherman). Croucier’s attorneys, on the other hand, became aware 25 of the 2002 Ruling as well as the fact that their client had a propensity to not tell the 26 truth when Croucier’s attorneys were served with Plaintiff’s Rule 11 motion when 27
28

1 Croucier attempted to get leave of court to amend his answer and attach a 2 counterclaim (See Dec. of Sherman).

3 The Rule 11 was served due to Croucier allegations that he just recently became 4 aware of WBS owning the Marks and his claim to a cause of action alleging breach 5 of fiduciary duty against Blotzer when there was written documentation from a lawyer 6 representing Croucier in 1996 clearly evidencing his knowledge and belief that 7 Blotzer was breaching a supposed fiduciary duty to Croucier back in 1996. In fact, 8 this whole litigation would be time barred for Croucier because there is nothing that 9 Croucier has testified to, argued, or claimed wherein he has known the operative facts 10 for such claims and causes of action since, at least, 2002. Croucier has been blatantly 11 lying to this Court and fabricating the record.

12 What's worse, Croucier's attorneys have been assisting in the perpetration of 13 this fraud. "A court has the right to expect that counsel will state the controlling law 14 fairly and fully" so the court can perform its tasks properly. Golden Eagle Distr.
15 Corp. v. Burroughs Corp, 801 F. 2d 1531, 1537 (9th Cir. 1986). Undoubtedly, this 16 duty of attorneys to be forthright and have candor with the courts is recognized 17 throughout the law. Fed. Rules of Civ. Pro. 11 is designed to ensure that a party 18 filing a pleading with the court certifies the essential matters in the document. The 19 Rule is intended to deter dilatory tactics, abusive pre-trial actions, and streamline 20 litigation to remove frivolous and baseless filings. Cooter & Gell v. Hartmarx 21 Corp., 496 US 384, 392-393 (1990). The Rule is designed to prevent lawyers from 22 asserting claims without adequate support as it is no longer acceptable to just file an 23 action and wait until later to determine if there is an actual case behind the pleading.
24 Hale v. Harney, 786 F. 2d 688 (5th Cir. 1986).

25 Rule 11 applies to pleadings, motions, and other papers filed with the Court.
26 Christian v. Mattel, Inc., 286 F. 3d 1118, 1131 (9th Cir. 2002). It is the party or 27 attorney signing the pleading who bears the responsibility for improper certifications.
28

1 Business Guides, Inc. v. Chromatic Communications Enterprises, Inc., 498 US 533, 2 541 (1991). In essence, Rule 11 requires parties and attorneys to certify that they have 3 read the document and, after reasonable inquiry under the circumstances, have a belief 4 that the document being filed is not done for an improper purpose, is warranted by 5 existing law, and it possesses evidentiary support. F.R.C.P. 11(b)(1), (2), and (3). If 6 an attorney or party does not meet this obligation, then, if warranted, the court may 7 award to the prevailing party the reasonable expenses, including attorney's fees, 8 incurred for the motion. F.R.C.P. 11(c). When a lawyer certifies a pleading as 9 required by Rule 11, reasonableness of his/her conduct is measured by reference to a 10 similar lawyer in the relevant field of law. Huettig & Schromm, Inc. v. Landscape 11 Contractors Council, 790 F.2d 1421, 1427 (9th Cir. Cal. 1986) (emphasis added); 12 Campbell v. City of Upland, 1998 U.S. App. LEXIS 24003, *2 (9th Cir. Cal. Sept. 23, 13 1998); Sonic Cable Television v. Creekside Mobilehome Community, 1995 U.S. App.
14 LEXIS 38177, *5-6 (9th Cir. Cal. Dec. 27, 1995). Additionally, when a lawyer has 15 expertise in a field of law and files improper motions "[a] strong inference arises that 16 their [filing the motion]...was for an improper purpose." Huettig & Schromm, Inc., 17 790 F. 2d at 1427 (9th Cir. 1986).

18 F. The Court Failed To Consider Dispositive Legal Arguments

19 The Court found a single, conclusory route for judgment in Croucier's favor, 20 without considering the viability of multiple other possibilities which would lead to 21 judgment in WBS's favor. The existence of other plausible options is precisely for 22 the jury to decide.

23 1. Dissolution of the Partnership

24 WBS argues in its Opposition to Croucier's MSJ that the Partnership has been 25 dissolved by operation of law. (See Dkt. 132, 14:27-15:9). The Court did not even 26 consider this argument before concluding that the assignment was invalid. (Dkt.
27 181, 12:10-12). The Court focused on the undisputed fact that the RATT 28

1 Partnership required unanimous consent of all other partners in order to transfer 2 ownership his interest. The Court acknowledged that “Pearcy’s understanding [was] 3 somewhat difficult to reconcile with the 1997 Bill of Sale and Agreement, which 4 represents that Pearcy, DeMartini, and Blotzer were ‘the Partners’ of WBS.” Had 5 the fact-finder been given the opportunity to consider WBS’s argument relating to 6 the dissolution of the Partnership, by operation of law, under Cal. Corp. Code 7 §16111, it would have a reasonable reconciliation.

8 The existence of the Partnership is a disputed, material fact that relates to 9 directly to whether the assignment of the trademarks was valid. WBS presented 10 argument that the Partnership ceased all business and a division of the major portion 11 of its assets (the trademarks) occurred shows that the Partnership was dissolved.
12 (See Dkt. 132, 14:27-15:9).

13 At the very least, a triable issue of material fact exists as to whether Croucier 14 objected to this division in anyway.

15 2. Statute of Limitations

16 WBS set forth a clear and legitimate argument that the statute of limitations had 17 run for Croucier’s counterclaims relating to declaratory relief as to ownership. The 18 Court made no reference to the ample evidence showing that Croucier knew of WBS’s 19 assertion of ownership over the trademarks, and his corresponding failure to assert 20 any claims thereto. It is undisputed that Croucier knew of WBS’s assertion of 21 ownership of the marks over ten years ago, yet the Court did not address this issue.
22 In fact, this Court seems to have believed that only Plaintiff made the motion for 23 summary judgment, not realizing that Croucier also made a motion for summary 24 judgment. As the Court states in its analysis to the parties’ cross-motions, “WBS and 25 Croucier now move for summary judgment on WBS’ trademark-related claims 26 against Croucier” (See Dkt. No. 181 pg. 5:11-13. Croucier also moved for summary 27 judgment on his declaratory relief cause of action, which would have required this

Court to address the Plaintiff's opposition based on the affirmative defense of the claim being barred by the statute of limitations.

Yet, there is no mention in the ruling on the MSJs as to Croucier declaratory relief cause of action or the statute of limitations defense.

IV. CONCLUSION

In conclusion, this motion for reconsideration should be granted on any number of grounds: judicial estoppel; collateral estoppel; Rooker-Feldman, or any other reason enumerated herein. Either this Court did not consider the 2002 Ruling or a fraud was perpetrated on this Court by Croucier and his attorneys. Either way, Plaintiff respectfully asks this Court to grant it motion for reconsideration .
